DIRECTOR'S NOTES

Into The Woods has held a special place in my heart since I was a high schooler myself. I spent countless hours watching a recording of the 1987 original Broadway cast of Into The Woods, memorizing every line and every song. The stories and messages taught through characters we have all grown to love captured my interest and my heart, and Sondheim's score is nothing short of genius. The stories combined with the music have produced an incredible work of art that we are honored to present to you all at this time.

My intention for this production was to take full advantage of our amazing new theater and all the theatrical elements it provides. I knew I needed to build a team of people who were just as passionate as I was to bring this vision to life, and I am so grateful that I have the BEST people surrounding me with their talents. Joseph Hewitt, our set designer and builder extraordinaire, joined us this year with excitement and creativity, and his willingness to teach students how to design, build, and trust themselves has made a lasting impact on our program. Chris Haynes, our orchestra pit director, also joined us for the first time this year and has jumped into this critical role with enthusiasm, continuing David Kays's great work of combining student and professional musicians to create an impressive live orchestra. And for the people who keep returning to Lincoln Drama with a passion and love that humbles me to my core, I thank you. Principal Peyton Chapman, who has been a voracious advocate for the arts in all of PPS, has shown nothing but love, support, and gratitude for Lincoln drama, and I am so grateful to work with a leader who values the arts. Jim Peerenboom, who built this program for over 20 years, created a community of students and alumni who appreciate and love theatre, continuing the success of Lincoln Drama. Kristi Wuttig, co-producer for a second year, has continually brought joy, dedication, and hard-work to each and every drama event and has become a genuine friend. Matt Capurro, joining us as musical director for our third show, has proven to be so much more than a director; he is a mentor, a confidante, a visionary, and a friend. And last, but certainly not least, Flavia Mariuccini, co-producer, costume designer from the heavens (who puts in more hours than I do), and my fairy godmother, is undoubtedly a driving force behind much of our success these past two years. To all of you, I am so appreciative, grateful, and in awe of your talents, love, and support.

But most importantly, I am filled with gratitude for the students in this program. My design workshop students who have worked for months on creating a beautiful set, dozens of props, and so much more. The new freshmen, who have joined this program with such excitement and joy, that I know we have many more years of fabulous shows with their involvement. The cast and crew members who continue to make Lincoln Drama a priority in their lives and have shown great dedication these past two years. And to the seniors, all 23 of you, you have truly made this program what it is today. Your trust in me and unwavering support has been more than any high school director could dream of when joining an already established program. Last year as juniors, you all showed a confidence in me and this program that kept me going during times of doubt and insecurity in myself. And this year, you rose up and became great leaders and role models for what a successful theatre program can do for young people, creating a family that everyone feels proud of belonging to. You all have inspired and wow-ed me with your talents time and time again, but far beyond that, you all have truly amazed me by being the people you are: kind, compassionate, caring, and incredibly hard-working. You will all be greatly missed, and I will forever treasure these two years we've had together.

Lastly, I want to thank my husband and fellow Lincoln teacher, Frank, and my two daughters for their support, patience, and belief in me. And now it's time to go into the woods...

CREATIVE/PRODUCTION TEAM

TRACIE TALERICO Director
 Wrapping up her second year as Lincoln’s Theatre Director, Talerico could not be more proud of the incredible work and love her students have shown for the performing arts! Additionally, Talerico serves as the sponsor of Lincoln’s Thespian Troupe #4719. She has been teaching English for the past 22 years, and currently teaches sophomore English at Lincoln, along with six theatre classes. Talerico began her directing work at Cardinal Gibbons High School in South Florida in 2003, producing and directing shows such as Grease, Les Miserables School Edition, and Godspell. In the last two years here at Lincoln, she has directed Heathers: Teen Edition and The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee. She is extremely grateful and honored to be a part of this incredible community.

MATTHEW CAPURRO Musical Director
 Matthew Capurro is an all purpose creator. While he considers himself a composer/lyricist, he also develops board games, devises escape rooms, and writes novels. His musical Sides premiered at the Fertile Ground Festival in 2019. More of his music can be heard on Spotify and playing at the Orange Coast College Planetarium. Previous music direction credits include Heathers The Musical and The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee here at Lincoln, as well as A Christmas Carol at Portland Playhouse and Journey to the West at Covina Center for the Arts. In his spare time (what’s that?) he makes comedy music videos as MatthewCMusic on YouTube and TikTok and produces Ghosts of Summer, a summertime Halloween convention with his partner, Lilo Alfaro. MatthewCMusic.com

CHRIS HAYNES Orchestra Director
 Graduating from Portland State University with a bachelor’s degree in music education, he has been teaching percussion at Lincoln since 2019. He’s also played in LHS’s past productions of the Sound of Music and Heathers. Before teaching at Lincoln, he marched drum corps and indoor drum line. He also writes and arranges music for the band to play. When he’s not involved with music, he is a cabinet maker and family man. Him and his wife have a two year old with another baby on the way. They also have a cat named Nora who always demands attention. Once a week they both play Dungeons & Dragons and he is a regular Dungeon Master.

FLAVIA MARIUCCINI Costume Designer, Producer
 Originally from Italy, Flavia graduated from IED in Rome with a Bachelor in Fashion Design and Journalism. Over the years she worked as editor for a few Italian magazines reporting from Milan, London, Rome and Barcelona fashion weeks. She also collaborated with leading photographers both as stylist and as producer in many adver. and fashion campaigns for national and international clients. Once relocating in Portland, she continued to work as an editor from home while busy raising her kids. When her daughter discovered a new passion for theater in middle school, she got involved as costume chair and since then has created costumes and produced several local productions including Heathers The Musical and The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee at Lincoln. Flavia is thrilled and thankful to be working with Tracie, Matt and Kristi and the fairy tale cast and crew of Into The Woods.

KRISTI WUTTIG Producer
 Kristi is a parent Co-Producer for Lincoln Drama last year and this year. She also Co-Produced Peter Pan Jr, at West Sylvan Middle School in 2019. Kristi has worked in the television industry, holding various producing positions on Television Dramas and Documentaries. This is her last production at Lincoln, as her daughters graduate and begin their journey. She has LOVED co-producing these last 2 years with Flavia and Tracie along with the entire production team, casts and crews. She will miss them all but knows they are in good hands, they will go on to produce amazing shows each year. “Into the Woods, it’s time to go, I hate to leave, I have to, though.” “We must begin our journey.” It has been a BLAST!

JOSEPH HEWITT Scenic Designer
 Joseph Hewitt has been designing and building sets in various capacities for the last 10 years. Prior to becoming the facilitator of the Makerspace right here at Lincoln High School he was working for Netflix. His work has also been seen on projects for Nike, Adidas, Columbia Sportswear, Hermès, Apple, and locally at the Portland Winter Lights Festival. He would like to give thanks to T for this opportunity, all the great kids in the show, and his wife Rhiannon, and new baby girl Maeve!
